Mrs. M. L. Jennings,
Methodist Parsonage,
C R A D O C K, C.P.

Dear Mrs Jennings,

I must thank you very much for your letter of the 14th instant, and as regards your previous letter, it was no worry to me at all although I replied to it in the midst of my preparations for my wedding.

I am glad to tell you I am making progres in regard to the exchange of cows, and I have every reason to bleieve that I shall be able to do something in the not too distant future.

Dr, Creux's death came as a shock to me; in fact I was not aware of anything of the kind, until I received a letter from a native friend in Cape Town to say Dr. Creux was dead, and it was even some days after he was buried. I then telegraphed to Mr. Buchanan who confirmed the said report by wire. I am glad to learn that Moruti was able to be with him until just before he became unconscious for the last time. In Dr. Creux's death I have lost a friend indeed; sometimes when I paid a visit at Cape Town I would find no accommodation at the Hostel, and Dr. and Mrs. Creux were always willing to put me up at their home - their home was my home - and it would be futile to try and say anything regarding the hospitality shown to me/by them every time I visit Cape Town. It is not for the hospitality shown to me when I visit Cape Town that makes the Doctor's death such a great loss to me..../

to me, as his abode was subject to a change at his pleasure, and would probably leave Cape Town and live in places like Johannesburg or Pretoria, and then I would not have the opportunity of putting me up when I visit Cape Town. It is a great loss to me because in Dr. Creux I and my people had found a friend, and since his stay amongst the Bamangwato as a doctor for some time, he came to love our people unreservedly, and with Shakespeare we might well say: "O insupportable and touching loss!"

My mother, wife and sister join me in sending our greetings to you.

Yours very sincerely,
