Dear Sir,

I have received the enclosed letter from Mr Fodisch and you will hear what he says. Mr Cavanagh has already commenced work on the reservoir; if this advice had not come late I would certaily have taken the advantage of it and would have tried to get in touch with this gentleman. If Mr Cavanagh is near the end of his job it is no use for me to try and stop his job now: I might as well let him complete the job although it is likely that the bottom will crack again. But in the meantime could you please at your end find more about this by a personal talk with this gentleman if he happens to be in town and kindly communicate with ~~him~~ me on the matter at some convenient time to yourself.

Sorry to be continually worrying you about this personal affair.

Yours sincerely,
